

Be it known to all Men by these presents that is a Lifetime Subscriber

to Kilobaud Magazine

Wherein: the above inscribed computerist does hereby promise and guarantee that he will peruse with care and attention each and every issue of said magazine and that once read, the magazine will be carefully preserved for posterity.

Wherein: the above inscribed computerist does also promise and guarantee that he and only he shall be privileged to peruse said magazine and that should any other person ask, demand, plead, or beg for even momentary use of said magazine, he shall refer said demander to the nearest commercial source of said magazine or provide adequate information for the demander to procure a subscription. The only exception to this covenant is that the above mentioned computerist may, if he is truly moved by the demander, permit a brief look through the table of contents of one single issue of said magazine.

Wherein: the above inscribed computerist does hereby promise to cherish his lifetime subscription to Kilobaud and does further agree to encourage all other computerists known to him to support said magazine with long-term subscriptions.

Wherein: the above inscribed computerist agrees to exercise his postlife option by notifying Kilobaud immediately upon demise so further issues can be routed to his new address.
